Community Coffee Lounge at the Chapel

We agreed at our recent Chapel business meeting to explore the feasibility of extending our premises into the courtyard to build a community coffee shop/lounge. It would also support events and be available for evening meetings.

This note is to advise that the feasibility study will be taking place over the next few months as we consider options, undertake consultations, consider practicalities and talk with stakeholders, not least the Local Planning Authority. We will arrange a whole-community consultation as part of this to generate ideas and help establish priorities. We will also form a community advisory group comprising a cross section of people from the parish, including young people.

It's important we don't get ahead of ourselves. We are not at this stage committing to build the coffee lounge, we are assessing demand, community support and viability in order to make a decision whether to proceed.

October Meeting

Wren Music

The little brown bird with a turned-up tail has a song most likely to be heard on any given day. “The wren seems to sing with real soul and gusto, remarkably consistent with its personality of fizzing intensity”.

As do the enthusiastic Wren Music Folk singers two of whom had the Bonaventures WI group joining in with the inevitable choruses during their renditions of popular songs, some of which date back centuries. We were treated to a couple from local areas such as Launceston, and South Zeal.

Paul sang “Game Cock”, about owning a cockerel, which had been a popular Music Hall number. Apparently, several topics have been covered over the years as themes for these medleys, including love/romance, pirates, sex, gypsies and nature.

Marilyn and Paul entertained and educated us during the evening, bringing music and history together, and very well they did it too.

Paul played guitar (2 of them-not together) and an accordion which accompanied the boisterous singing from the pair.

Wren Music is a charity with 40 years’ experience of delivering community music and concerts to a wide variety of people, in Residential Homes, at schools, as well as classes for all ages and capabilities, using voice or instruments.

COPD sufferers are encouraged to join singing groups as it is good for their lungs.

Choirs and orchestras are open to anyone. Whether or not people can play an instrument or sing, or have any experience of reading music, they’ll fit right in as the music is learned by ear.

They have a particular focus on the music of Devon and have

PLAYING FIELD

It has come to the parish council's attention that someone has decided to use the verge at the playing field as a toilet. It is bad enough having to pick up dog mess, but not very nice for someone to have to clean up human waste.

The council would like to think that the person doing it is not local, but we would like to issue a reminder to use the public toilets situated close by. Thank you.

Week St Mary Parish Hall

We would like to encourage people to use the Hall more.

It costs £706 a month to run the Hall and most months there is a shortfall.

Over the last three years we have repaired the roof and replaced some of the windows and doors to make it more efficient to run.

We are now looking to replace the boiler, which is 30 years old, at a cost of £20,000.

We would welcome any donations towards meeting the cost.

Trip to Uganda

In the summer 17 students from Launceston college went to Bunjacco vocational school in Uganda to do some charity work. I was lucky enough to be one of those students.

While we were over there we painted classrooms and gave out donations such as clothes and shower gel. This was an extremely eye opening experience as we learnt how lucky we are in the UK to have things like food and clothing.

The students were extremely grateful for the donations and were very excited that we were there. They were also happy to get involved and help us with our work, such as painting the mural of the world which they loved and will help them at school with subjects such as geography. This was also an experience for many of the students at the school as many of them had never painted before. This trip has given me many new friends and has taught me so much, so I would just like to say thank you to the many of you who supported me by donating, as this has been a life changing experience for me.

Scammers don't care, they will take everything from you!

The National Fraud Intelligence Bureau (NFIB) at the City of London Police and Action-Fraud have reported they are receiving in excess of 850,000 reports of fraudulent scams each year and there are an equal number if not more that go unreported, and with AI it is getting worse!!!

A new one, or should I say an old one with a new twist is jobs working from home. Adverts in social media want people with selected skills to apply for a job, where the individual can earn up to £30,000 plus bonuses a year. There is no upfront investment and all documentation is original and correct, the applicant is tasked with some jobs, which are easily complied with and a bonus structure is commenced.

Here's the rub! The applicant now has to provide their bank and personal details to get payment. Guess what? Correct! no payment only withdrawals.

One such victim lost £18,000.

Some might say they would never get caught out as they are too careful, but a professional con man or woman can work you until you believe anything they tell you.

AN AIRBNB host has warned of being scammed out of £2,000.

Individuals are renting accommodation through Airbnb and making spurious comments and complaints regarding the accommodation and either failing to pay or demanding a refund. Basically, this is blackmail as the renter threatens to make unjustified and derogatory comments on respective social media platforms, the bad publicity is more damaging than giving a refund! Report any such occurrences to the Police.

LASTPASS users warned about a phishing email

This scam asks LastPass users to update their password or account details through a link to a fake login page. These emails are very convincing and use the same logos and branding as the real LastPass emails and are produced to a very high standard and one can be easily fooled!

In all cases don't become hurried and check the website where the email is being sent from. Have a competent email security software in place and do not respond to a SMS or email requesting your personal data.

If you believe you have been scammed, contact your credit card company or bank right away to stop the transaction. Tel: 159 - Stop Scams UK
